Go Green: Trains

Taking the train is a great way to travel through Europe! If you are planning multiple train rides through Europe, it might be convenient to book an Interrail: Tour Europe by train with 1 Pass. During your train ride, you will see a lot of Europe, but it is time-consuming. Make sure to schedule your train ride in time.

Rome - Utrecht or Florence - Utrecht

If you're joining one of our tracks that include a course in Rome or Florence before your course in Utrecht, you will need to travel from there to Utrecht. The course in Utrecht starts on a Monday so we advise you to travel on Friday or Saturday. Make sure you arrive on time for your next course.

If you wish to buy only one ticket, you can do so via multiple websites:

- <https://www.thetrainline.com/>
- <https://www.raileurope.com/en/>

Most trains from Italy to the Netherlands travel through Basel, to Rotterdam. From Rotterdam (NL) it is only 45 minutes to Utrecht.

Utrecht - Berlin or Utrecht - Riga

If you're joining one of our tracks that include a course in Berlin or Riga after your course in Utrecht, you will need to travel from Utrecht to Berlin/Riga. The course in Berlin/Riga starts on a Monday so we advise you to travel on Friday or Saturday, if you take the train. Make sure you arrive on time for your next course.

You can either use your Interrail pass, or book an individual ticket. The train from Utrecht to Berlin will take approximately 7 hours. The train from Utrecht to Riga will take approximately 24 hours, but you will travel through Germany, Poland, Lithuania and Latvia.

You can also search for any other carpool website online!

Flights

It might not always be possible or convenient to travel green. There are of course lots of options to take a plane. The Netherlands has 3 airports, of which Schiphol Airport (Amsterdam) is the largest. From Schiphol it will take you half an hour to travel to Utrecht by train. Other airports are Eindhoven and Rotterdam Airport.

Rome - Utrecht

If you're joining one of our tracks that include a course in Rome before your course in Utrecht, you will need to travel from there to Utrecht. The course in Utrecht starts on a Monday so we advise you to travel on Friday, Saturday or Sunday. Make sure you arrive on time for your next course. From Rome, there are lots of flights, mainly to Schiphol Airport. Direct flights are usually offered by KLM or ITA, 4 times a day. You can book this flight via the airline directly, or via websites such as Cheaptickets or Flightscanner.
