Islamic Banking and Finance

July 15 – July 19, 2019

For managers who operate in the international business world understanding of cultural differences between countries can be of importance. This also applies to comparing traditional finance with Islamic finance. A slightly complicating factor is that the operationalisation of Islamic banking may differ from one country to the other. E.g. in Malaysia and the Gulf states not all issues are addressed in the same way. Students who are interested in a career in the financial sector, as well as students who have an academic interest in these subjects, can find many useful subjects in this course.
