

The Making of Europe: Rise of Civilization - Royal Netherlands Institute in Rome 8th of July – 19th of July 2019

In this syllabus you find the course schedule and literature. We would like to ask you to read the texts for the first day (Burke - "How to write a history of Europe?" and Bosworth - "Rome and the Romes Across Time") in advance. During the course you will have time to read the other texts, but since the days touring the hot and busy city are quite intense, we would like to encourage you to read ahead as much as possible. We are looking forward to meeting you at 9 am, on the 8th of July at the Royal Netherlands Institute in Rome (KNIR) - Via Omero 10, Rome.

Course title:	The Making of Europe: The Long 20 th Century
Track:	D-Track
Language of instruction:	English
Contact hours:	48 (6 per day)
ECTS-Credits:	4

Course description

This course provides an overview of the political, socio-economic, and cultural developments that shaped Europe in the long 20th century. Many deeply impacting developments occurred over the course of the 20th century: Two World Wars were fought, the birth of the European Union and the fall of Communism, just to name a few. Being such a crucial city in Europe's history in the 20th century, Berlin is the most logical location for this course. Special emphasis will also be given to Germany's role in the middle of the continent and to the historical origins of the European Union and its present state. The city of Berlin, with all its tangible historical remains, will be dealt with as a city of former crisis with great promises for a better future.

In this course we will try to identify the democratic values that have shaped the rebirth of Europe and discuss the challenges with which present-day Europe is faced. The course will reflect on Europe's place in the global, multi-polar world of the 21st century.

Several excursions will be organised in which you will visit some key historic sites in the city.

Student profile

The course is open to undergraduate students from different fields of study with an interest in culture, society and politics.

Prerequisites

The course requires a minimum language proficiency of B2 in English. A general background in the social sciences may help, but no specific expertise is required.

Course requirements

Students must attend classes, actively engage in class discussions, and regularly contribute ideas to the class to successfully complete this course.

Grading

Active participation: 30%

Midcourse exam: 30%

Final exam: 40%

Reading

The reading material for the course will be provided.
